During the TPM, participants met Turkish youth whom have introduced their city and also made presentations about National Strategies against use of drugs.

TOGETHER WE CAN

The challenge of the project :
" TOGETHER WE CAN " is to introduce experimental prevention programs in different territories with the active involvement of young people using a methodology that combines the cognitive, affective and relational elements that promote the non-formal education method. The innovative character of the project arises both in relation to the contents and to the method.

Young people will not be considered as passive recipients of the experimental intervention model, but as a resource, on the creative, ethical-cultural, technical and didactic level, for the conception and construction of tools and contents, and will therefore be involved in a comparison with educators / youthworkers also as regards the evaluation and analysis phase of the material already collected and evaluated by them.
